GIVES IT STRAIGHT.

One of the clearest headed young men in any of the professions in North North Carolina made a statement to the editor of THE COMMONWEALTH recently that carries with it a great deal of significance.

He said that he was better posted and more correctly posted as to the passing events of the day when he was living far out in the mountains away from the railroads, than at any period of bis life. He was teaching out there, we believe, and his only means of learning the news was the weekly newspa-

He received his mail once or twice a week and had to rely on the weekly papers for his information.

The gay headlines and startling statements in the dailies ran their course in a day or two and before the weekly pa per printed the news it got down to its proper size and the weekly thus gave it straight.

And this is about the way of it still. The editor of the weekly paper sometimes feels like he is a week behind but being a little behind gives him a chance to get the news straight.

Take, for instance, the news of the recent St. Louis cyclone. In the name of pity, it was bad enough when it was given correctly; but the dailies in horrifying headlines announced that thousand lives were lost and almost an incalculable amount of property was destroyed. When the hard facts were learned in time for the weekly press to give them to its readers, there were only three hundred lives lost and the prop erty loss about one-tenth what the dailies first reported.

Take another instance: A few weeks ago there was a severe hail storm at Wake Forest, and the daily papers said that Mr. W. P. Mangum's crop was entirely ruined, loss about $5,000, and he would have to plant his cotton fields in peas. A lew days later, when the talk about the hail storm had ceased to be news to the dailies, but in good time for the weeklies to get in a correct re port, it was learned that Mr. Mangum' crop was damaged very little, if any, and that he would make as much as if the hall had not come.

Aiter all, you may pretty surely rely on the weekly papers that are carefully edited, and they are fully worth the money they cost any family.

GOVERNOR CARR'S FINE STEED.

Thousands of North Carolinians at ended the Confederate reunion in Richmond last week; and it was their peculiar pleasure to see Governor Carr ride the finest steed in the procession.

We heard some of the Scotland Neck people who were there say that Governor Carr's raven-black horse was the prettiest in the procession and the Governor's Guards were the handsomest in the procession, also, and were cheered lustily all along the lines.

June 18th the Scotland Neck Demobe no less Democratic, says the editor.

Gold Leaf: But beyond the change in name there will be neither "yariation nor the shadow of yarying" in its editorial utterances or conduct of management. Its politics, policy and tenor will be the same as heretofore. Brother Hilliard publishes an excellent paper, and the Gold Leaf wishes him success and prosperity equal to his deserts.

Charlotte Democrat: The Scotland Neck Democrat, one of the brightest weeklies in eastern North Carolina, has parted company with its old name, and since June 11th appears as THE COM-MONWEALTH. The name is a most fitting one and we bespeak for THE COM-MONWEALTH the same general popularity that its predecessor in name has en-

Roanoke News: Our esteemed neighbor, the Democrat of Scotland Neck, has laid aside its old heading and now comes out under the name it first had, THE COMMONWEATTH. This the name under which the paper was established in 1882 by the associate editor of the News, who soon afterward sold it to Mr. Noah Biggs and others We congratulate our neighbor on return to its original name an wish it prosperous career.

Plymouth Beacon: With its issue of June 18th the Scotland Neck Democrat changed its name to THE COM-MONWEALTH. Outside of its heading no change has been made. Editor Hilliard is a pusher in the newspaper busness and has done a power of good for his town and community. His reason for changing the name of his .paper is because there are so many papers in the State named Democrat. THE COMMONS WEALTH will be no less Democratic than the Democrat was.

SKETCH OF OUR NEXT GOV-ERNOR.

Winston Sentinel. Cyrus B. Watson, "Our Cy," as he s popularly known throughout Western North Carolina, is a son of the late John Watson, Esq., and was born January 14, 1844, near Kernersyille, in what was then a part of Stokes; but forming now a very important section of this (Forsyth) county.

From early childhood he was excep tionally bright and gave promise o great mental activity and capacity. His educational advantages were only those afforded by the common schools of that day.

When the dark clouds of the late civil war arose and hovered threateningly over this Southland, although only 16 years of age, he was one of the first to shoulder arms and go out from the home of his boyhood to fight and suffer and, if needs be die tor the Confederate cause. He served most valiantly as sergeant of company K., Forty-fifth regiment, N. C. troops. He was seriously wounded at both Williamsport, Md., and Spottsylvania court

When the war closed Mr. Watson laid down his arms and came back to his Kernersville home. He served News and Observer: With its issue both there and at High Point for year or two as a clerk in general mercrat changed its name to THE COMMON- chandise stores. He afterwards studied to spend their wages foolishly to their WEYLTH. The Democrat by any other law under the late J. M. Leach at Lexname would read as well. But it will ington, and was admitted to the bar in 1868. During the next year, 1869, he was united in marriage to Miss A. E. Henly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. the week. W. P. Henly.

Since the war, while loyal in every way to the Federal Government, he has at all times, by both word and action, shown himself and earnest defender of the South and her interests. He is an active member of the Norfleet Camp, No. 426, United Confederate o'clock sharp on Saturday nights.

Mr. Watson rose rapidly to prominence in his chosen profession, developing into an able practitioner, especially adroit and successful in the conduct of criminal causes.

In 1883 Mr. Watson was elected to the North Carolina State Senate, Thirty-second district. He served as an efficient member of the Commit-Scotland Neck Democrat is no more, Code, Redistricting the State, Ju-WEALTH. The change is simply one of a hard working Senator, in every name. It is to Mr. Watson that is due the credit for originating and engineering, to successful enactment, th most notable and salutary law of tha year, the famous anti-lynch law. He was elected to the Senate by majority of 1,305.

About 1875 Mr. Watson formed co-partnership, for the practice of law with the late W. B. Glenn, with whom he was associated until 1885, when the present well known law firm of Watson & Buxton, which ranks as one o the foremost legal combinations in the State, was formed.

Again in 1893 Mr. Watson was called into public life, having been elected to the lower House of the State Legislature. In this position he, as in the Senate of 1883, labored diligently for the best interests of his constituency and State at large.

He was the author and earnest advocate of the famous anti-trust measure introduced in the House by himself, and passed that body by a good majority, but was floundered and defeated in the Senate by a bare majority. The direct aim of this measure was to throw off the heavy yoke of trusts and Dunn Union: The change of name combinations, which have for several does not change the politics of the pa- years been sapping the life from North per. It was with commendation like unto the quotation just used, that the Forsyth county convention, held in this city June 20th, most enthusiastically endorsed Mr. Watson for the nomination as Democratic candidate for Congress from the Eighth district.
